LACC STUDENT NAMED TO 2022 ALL-CALIFORNIA PHI THETA KAPPA TEAM

(April 5, 2022) – Los Angeles City College (LACC) is honored to have LACC student Connor Mollon named as part of the 2022 All-California Phi Theta Kappa Second Team.

This year, 114 California Community College students were selected for the All-California Academic First, Second and Third Teams.

“We are extremely proud of Connor to be included in such a prestigious honor,” said Dr. Mary Gallagher, President, Los Angeles City College. “Our students continue to encourage excellence, especially in times when many have experienced great challenges.”

Phi Theta Kappa recognizes academic achievement and provides opportunities for highly successful students at community colleges to participate in honors, leadership, and service activities for the community. Each California community college may nominate two students based on outstanding academic performance and service to the college and community. All-State Team members are honored at the annual luncheon with special recognition including medallions, certificates and when available, stipends and scholarships.

Students selected represent the best of the two million students currently enrolled in California’s 116 community colleges.
